FOREWORD

"Anatomy of a Student," the theme of our 1962 TOTEM, is an appropriate theme choice for five reasons:

It gives us a backbone or skeleton--the student himself.

It gives us muscles that cause the skeleton to move--the student's teachers and administrators.

It gives us a circulatory system, always pumping life--activities.

It gives us a nervous system, always stimulating the body to action--sports.

And it gives us the digestive system necessary to nourish--advertising.

As you look through your 1962 TOTEM you will see perhaps more clearly the reason this theme was chosen, that the components of a student's life at school--his being there in the first place, his teachers and administrators, his activities and sports, and the advertising necessary to publish his yearbook--are indeed his anatomy--each function as important as the next, and all necessary for a full high-school education.

THE LABORATORY

The 1961-1962 term marks another first for residents of the Juneau area. For the first full year they have enjoyed using the completed Juneau-Douglas High School facilities. Students and public alike attended plays in the modern auditorium, thrilled to sports events in the spacious gymnasium, and visited the third floor addition to the building.

DEDICATION

Enthusiasm is a prime measure of a good chorus--enthusiasm for singing both in practice and performance.

Our J-D High School chorus surely may be called enthusiastic. We see this love for singing in practice sessions, at school concerts and at special performances for community events.

The generator of enthusiasm in a chorus is the director, however, not the students, and we at J-D High have as chorus director a woman of remarkable talent, a woman with compassion for her students and--infectious enthusiasm.

To Doris Jeanne Cranfill, our chorus director for six years, we dedicate this 1962 TOTEM. Miss Cranfill has brought music to those who might never have otherwise felt its emotionally-satisfying pull, thus enriching our lives through the beauty of song.

SENIORS

President Steve Anderson, other officers, and their two faculty advisors led the class of 1962 through an exciting, action-packed year. The class, in keeping with their high school reputation of originality, sponsored a "first" in the production of a three-act play. Their Senior Ball, featuring an enchanting "Crystal Palace" theme, was an unprecedented success. Much energy, thought, and hard work went into this, the last, and most impressive year of all.

It looks as if the Ink Spots were enjoyed.

Seniors cook up entertainment for Ball.

Seniors plan to abscond with the play receipts.

SENIOR BALL

Proud seniors and their advisors, Mrs. Amanda Cook and Mr. Ken Grieser, happily presented "Crystal Palace" on December 22, 1961. Breaking with the traditional in order to provide four full hours of dancing enjoyment to the music of two different combos, they opened their ball at eight-thirty o'clock in the artistically decorated cafeteria.

Assuming new roles as upperclassmen, 1961-62 juniors found their school term a year of choices affecting the student body as well as their own class. Students from all classes voted for Totem Queen from the five candidates selected by the juniors, while junior classmen made other important decisions regarding the design of their class ring and the theme of their Prom.

Busy Sophomores displayed their new stature not only by initiating over two hundred Freshmen, but also by initiating a possible tradition. For the first time in school history, Sophomores managed an all-school variety show for the benefit of the Student Body Activity Fund. Selling book covers and handling concessions at basketball games, they settled their own finances into a good position for upperclass years.

PRINCIPAL

An enlarged enrollment led to an enlarged staff as Juneau High School swelled to a record 560 students. Mrs. Mary Meek joined Mrs. Lillian Cooper for half days in the office, while the English department gained one teacher to handle the freshman overflow. Replacing Mrs. Kitty Gair, who is on a year's leave of absence, Mrs. Margaret Smoker assumed the duties as school nurse, while Mr. Robert Houska counselled the students on their future plans.

Capable and hard-working, the 1961-62 Associated Student Body officers cooperated well with the administration, faculty, class representatives, and leaders of extra-curricular organizations to meet the problems of a growing school.

With ready wit, President Linn Asper piloted the Student Council, while Carmen Phelps, Elaine Savikko, and Wayne Matheny efficiently performed their duties as secretary treasurer, and vice-president of the student government.

Difficulties in scheduling one period of band for an increasing number of students benefitted both freshmen and upperclassmen this year. With the band divided into two sections, one of freshmen and one of upperclassmen, the inexperienced freshmen obtained special help without hindering the progress of the more experienced musicians. Freshmen representatives Lillian Dore, Bernard Bolton, Karen Rosenberger, and Kenny King joined with Director Clifford Berge and the Senior Band officers Georgena Paddock, Wayne Matheny, Carmen Phelps, and Colleen Simpson to coordinate all band activities.

GIRLS' CLUB

Starting the Girls' Club year was a successful Big and Little Sister Banquet at which freshmen girls were treated by their senior sisters on September 28. At Christmastime the girls enthusiastically decorated the entire school including the traditional fifteen-foot tree placed in the auditorium-gym hallway. The final big project, the Tolo, January 19, saw the fabulous "Wonderland by Night" come to life. Mrs. Elizabeth Green advised the girls in their year's activities.

As the school year draws to a close, many things enter my mind. Probably the most important event for the seniors is graduation, but for me, completing my Totem runs a close second. It was an unforgettable experience that ended with great satisfaction, happiness, and relief.

"Fun" might be the best adjective describing this year. In spite of the small problems that occurred, the staff managed to come out of the "crisis" smiling. During the times we worked after school, the atmosphere of Mrs. Sullivan's room was always pleasant, therefore, making work much easier.

Since not too many of you realize how the staff functions, I will give a brief summary of our year. Intensive planning was the first stop. Picture taking and copy writing followed. Cutting out pictures and pasting them on the lay-out sheets required time and patience. The staff worked nearly every night after school and on week ends trying to meet deadlines. Our goal was completed and we are very proud of our book.

I take the opportunity, as past editor, to thank all of you who helped produce this book. I can't thank my staff enough. To you, Mrs. Sullivan, I'm at a loss for words. Your help and advice was invaluable. Good luck to you, John and Sue, on your 1963 Totem. I sincerely hope that your year as Co-Editors will be as wonderful and rewarding as mine was.

Suellen
